Dispute develops over study of rent subsidy plan

tween members of the Des Plaines Houscity council committee over who will study the details of a federal rent subsidy program for the city.

The rift, which surfaced Thursday during a housing commission session, involves whether the commission or the council's health and welfare committee, headed by Ald. George Olen (2nd), will study the federal government's Section 23 leasing program.

Olen's committee has scheduled a meeting Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. to begin looking at details of the leasing program.

However, housing commission member Ted Sherwood said that he did not understand why the program was being explored by two groups.

"If Olen wants to take over the chairmanship of this commission, I'll be glad to make that motion," Sherwood said.

However Olen also stated that the commission should take topics which members believe should be examined.

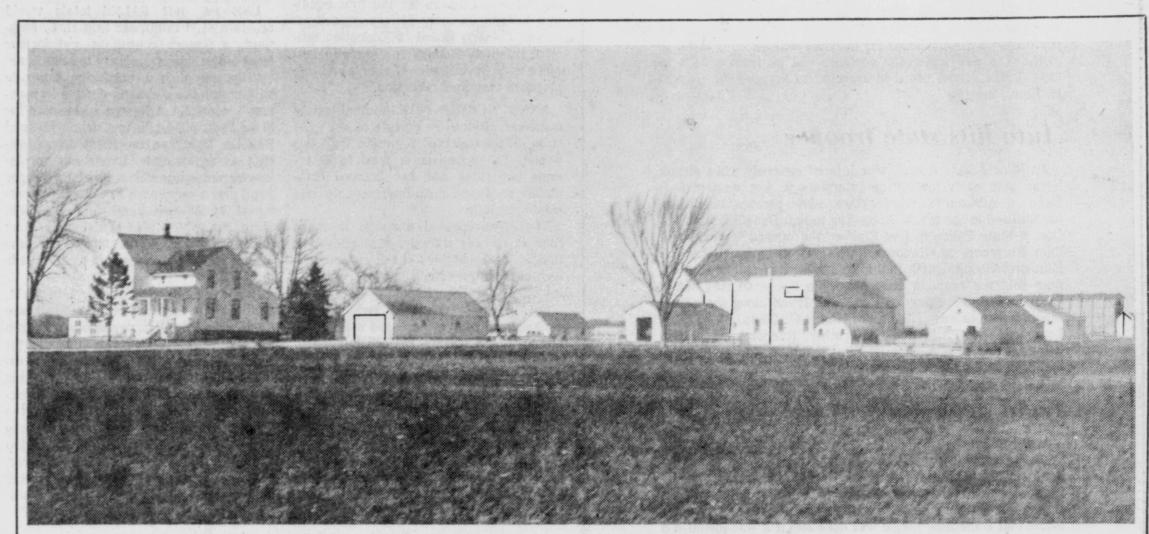

City officials have expressed an interest in the new leasing program, which will utilize privately-owned apartments, as a possible means of supplying additional housing for senior citizens and for low and moderate income families.

The Bestmann Farm as it looked before commercial developments began to take over the area.

Plowed under by economics

What becomes of a 120-acre farm that can no longer live with skyrocketing land prices, taxes and suburban sprawl?

The decision to sell the family farm has been a bittersweet one for August Bestmann and his son-in-law Ed Bartz.

It was a 120-acre farm along Dundee Road west of Ill. Rte. 53 with a clean look and crops grown from ruler straight rows. For decades it was the home place, owned by Bestmann and tilled by Bartz.

Now that land is only part of the suburban sprawl, soon to be turned into a shopping center and home for thousands of apartment dwellers. August Bestmann's farm gave way to suburban economics.

The intersection of Rte. 53 and the new four-lane Dundee Road has become the axis for apartments, condominium apartments, quadrominiums and other catchy named high density housing developments that didn't exist when Bartz started farming there in 1945.

LAND IN THAT area is selling for $20,000 to $30,000 per acre, a pricetag high enough to drive away any would-be farmers. As land values rise, so do the taxes.

When Bartz moved to the Bestmann farm 30 years ago, "taxes were under $10 an acre...Now they're up over $100 an acre," Bartz

"If I were given the land free to farm, I couldn't make the expenses to keep it," he added as his wife nodded in agreement.

Most of Bartz's years on the farm have been devoted to truck farming, raising produce to sell to local consumers. And truck farming, unlike cattle or grain farming, requires a large labor force. One reason Bartz left full-time truck farming in 1969 to return to grain crops was the growing shortage of labor. Early signs of housing development were also showing up in the late 1960s.

"WE HAD NO building before the '60s. There were no buildings, no streets," said Mrs. Bartz, who grew up on her father's farm, first at Palatine and Schoenbeck roads in Arlington Heights, then at the Dundee Road location.

"Nobody on my dad's side still farms," Mrs. Bartz said. Her hus-work day and on weekends. When the Dundee Road farm is gone, Bartz hopes to find a new area to work with.

"I still have my machinery and equipment. . .there's just nothing like seeing that black dirt turn over," he said. In its heyday, the farm sported cattle, hogs, grain crops, and even Canadian geese. The last pair of Bartz's Canadian geese were sold

TODAY, BARTZ lives in a home overlooking one of the greens of the Thunderbird Golf Course, in the far northwestern corner of Palatine Township. The expanse of white farm buildings on the old Bestmann farm, which are already showing signs of age and disrepair, will come down to make way for a shopping center and procery store.

Barts still hopes to farm the dwindling acreage for a couple of years before the bulldozers move in. Construction on the back 80 acres already is under way, and developers are currently before county zoning officials to clinch rezoning plans for a 38-acre shopping center where the weathered farm buildings still stand.

In their reminiscing, the Bartzes recall the old-fashioned neighborliness that is somehow missing now. Some people today would call it meddling. But long before Palatine became a suburb, it was the way of Rising construction costs and a lack of funds have forced a delay in completion of a multi-million dollar addition to Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village. Hospital officials said about 45 per cent of the addition's interior will be left unfinished when the addition is completed this fall. No timetable has been set to finish the interior. Original cost estimate was $7.5 million for the addition. Bids amounted to $11.4 million and completion cost is now estimated at $12 or $13 million, necessitating the cutback.

Teachers approve 8.7% hike

Elk Grove Township Dist, 59 teachers Monday approved a one-year contract providing an average pay hike of about 8.7 per cent. Starting salaries for teachers will go from $8,340 to $9,100. Top pay under the contract will go from $17,635 to $19,170. The school board is expected to approve the pact at its June 3 meeting.

Auto hits state trooper

An Illinois state trooper was injured seriously when struck by an auto early Sunday on Interstate 90 just west of Mill Road in Addison Township. Two other persons also were hospitalized in the crash. According to Sgt. Donald Lehman of Dist. 3 State Police in Des Plaines, the injured trooper, William Rechman, 29, Hanover Park, was in intensive care in Elmhurst Hospital with multiple injuries and fractures. Lehman said the accident occurred while Rechman was out of his patrol car checking an abandoned truck along the center median. The driver of the auto, Nancy G. Coutu, 21, of 21 S. Lombard, Oak Park, and her brother, Randolph, were also being treated in Elmhurst Hospital, Lehman said no charges had been filed against the woman as of Monday.

Land deal study urged

A Wheeling trustee called Monday for a thorough investigation of land purchases involved with a local road realignment project after a recent Herald disclosure that investors profited after buying land in and along the right-ofway. "I'm not very pleased with that whole set-up. It seems to me that something illegal was done and if it was illegal, I'd like to see the guilty people punished," said Trustee Al Lang.

Pilot, 69, crash lands

A 69-year-old Wheaton man escaped serious injury when his private airplane was destroyed in a crash landing at Schaumburg Airport. "It was a very lucky accident. Lutz received head stitches after the single-engine Cessna Skyhawk he was piloting crashed at the edge of the airport Sunday afternoon. Federal Aviation Administration officials are

Bernard M. Peskin is scheduled for sentencing at 2 p.m. today for his role in passing bribes between Kaufman & Broad and former officials in Hoffman Estates. James Thompson's office of prosecuting him because he was "politically important."

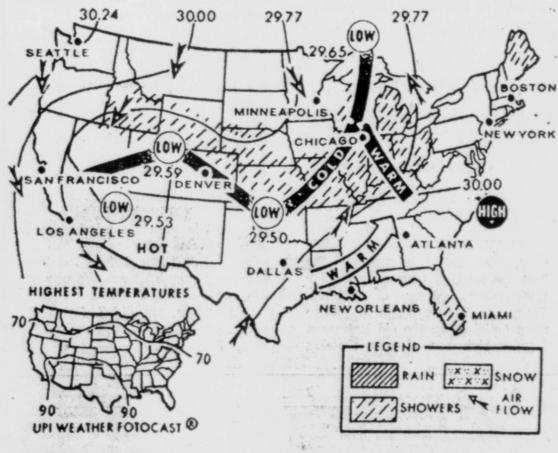

Mount Prospect cigaret tax?

A 5-cent-a-pack cigaret tax in Mount Prospect has been proposed by Village Trustee E. F. Richardson, who gave up his pack-a-day habit three years ago. Richardson said revenue from the tax should be used for capital improvements such as expansion of village administration offices. "It's a ready source - a good source - of revenue," said Richardson. Mayor Robert D. Teichert said he would favor a cigaret tax if it is earmarked for capital improvements. "We just can't burden the real estate tax," said Teichert. "It gets beyond a certain point, you just can't do it."

Tollway strike continues

Supervisory personnel continued to fill in for striking tollway collectors during the Memorial Day holiday. No talks have been scheduled between the Illinois State Toll Highway Authority and General Services Employes Union Local 73. Traffic on Illinois tollways was reported normal with no major tie-ups in the seventh day of the strike.

Schools: don't drop equalizer

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

School and park district officials pleaded at a hearing Monday that the Illinois Department of Local Government Affairs maintain the three-year-old $1.59 tax equalizer rate in Cook County.

An estimated $50 million in tax revenue will be lost this year by schools and park districts if the equalizer is dropped to a state proposed $1.48 level, the offi-

More than 150 local officials from throughout the county jammed the hearing room in Chicago for the first equalizer hearing in state history. A delegation of Chicago Board of Education officials traveled Monday to Springfield to meet with Gov. Daniel Walker about the proposed equalizer reduction.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF the final county equalizer, which is calculated by the state, is not expected for more than two weeks. The equalizer is used to determine tax rates and has delayed completion of second installment county real estate tax bills.

The often-repeated message in more than 48 witness statements Monday was that at least one-third of tax revenue determined by the equalizer was spent during the 1973-74 school years.

Loss of the revenue by reducing the equalizer will force increased sale of tax anticipation warrants, the officials warn-

The proposed reduction "won't save taxpayers any money. It will cost them in interest for tax warrants," Michael Schiltz of the Evanston Dist. 202 Board of Education said.

"ALL PLANNING FOR next year already has been completed," said Wesley Gibbs, vice-president of ED RED, a 67 school district association that includes head of the state's property tax division.

"Districts with a maximum tax rate will experience a drastic decline in revenue," said R. A. Lyons, a spokesman for State Supt. of Public Instruction Michael Bakalis. Using an unnamed school district as an example, Lyons said an assessed real estate valuation of $69,461 per pupil and a maximum $2.42 tax rate produced $1,681 per pupil for education. State aid, which also is determined by the equalizer, would be $531 per pupil for a total per pupil expense of $2,212 in the state aid in the district would increase $36 per pupil but tax revenue would drop $84, he said. The loss in the district would be more than $250,000. Park districts face cuts in recreation programs and maintenance if the equalizer reduction is approved, Gerald Oakes, of the Glencoe Park District, said. Oakes, who represented park districts in Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Des Plaines, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Wheeling and Schaumburg, said "there is no possibility for other funds to offset this loss."

The Environmental Protection Agency is not doing enough to make sure pesticides on the market are meeting federal legal requirements for safety and effectiveness, congressional auditors said yesterday. Inaugurate Giscard; new era promised

PARIS (UPI) - President Valery Giscard d'Estaing strode through thousands of cheering Parisians to his installation Monday - pausing to kiss and hug his two daughters at the roadside - promised France "a new era," then named conservative Gaullist Interior Minister Jacques Chirac his first premier.

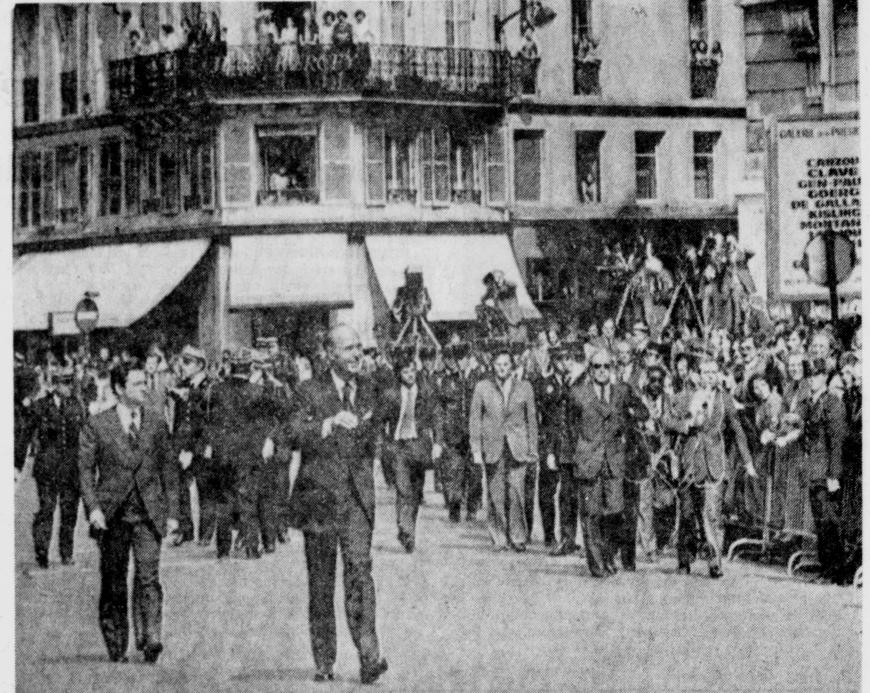

It was the first time a French president ever walked to the Elysee presidential palace to assume his duties.

Chirac, at 41 France's second youngest premier since World War II and a onetime graduate student at Harvard, said he will submit a "rather restricted" cabinet list Tuesday.

Chirac, who says he worked as a dishwasher and a chauffeur for a Texas millionaire while at Harvard, took over as premier from Pierre Messmer. Under the 1958 constitution, the head of state has wide executive powers including overall responsibility for foreign and defense policy, and the premier is charged with implementing the president's policies.

Nixon seeks inflation task force

From United Press International

In his first report on the economy since the end of wage and price controls, President Nixon will ask Congress for a cost of living task force to keep a close watch on inflation, the White House said Mon-

The report, to be made public Tuesday at 11 a.m. CDT, was prepared by the President's Council of Economic Advisers and will discuss the present condition of the American economy and policies dealing with inflation, unemployment, housing, energy shortages and international economic problems, the announcement said.

Dent said Monday the proposed task force would have no powers to control prices or wages. Its major task would be to spot inflationary danger signals in the economy and assist it in averting them and overcoming the shortages "that have Commerce Secretary Frederick B. resulted from three years of wage and price controls."

Dent said he believed a decline in high interest rates would set in within 90 days and as they went down, the stock market would have an upturn. He also predicted the rate of inflation would drop close to 10 per cent in the next quarter of the year while there would be an improvement over the first quarter's decline in industrial output.

In Geneva, international trade officials said Monday the "Nixon Round" of trade liberalization negotiations may have to be shelved in favor of a smaller, less ambitious package deal.

The officials said hope is dwindling fast that Nixon can obtain the necessary approval from Congress in time for negotiations to start this year. They said Congress is preoccupied with Watergate and mid-term elections this November, and it is unlikely the President can obtain negotiating authority for large-scale trade liberalization mea-

Believe Army to test deadly gas on beagle pups

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Despite a recent outpouring of protests from dog lovers, the Army apparently plans to continue testing deadly gases on beagle puppies at its Edgewood Arsenal chemical warfare center in Maryland, Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., said Monday.

Aspin said the arsenal placed an advertisement for 450 puppies, ages seven to 12 months, in the May 15 edition of the Commerce Business Daily. He said he was "astounded that under the circumstances the Army would even dare to reopen its beagle experiments."

A Defense Department spokesman was unable to say to what purpose the beagles would be used.

Memorial Day speeches, old and new

It was the day of traditional speechifying and rostrum thumping as Americans in their millions observed the rituals of Memorial Day yesterday. Among the speakers and their thoughts:

• In Vergennes, Vt., veteran U.S. Senator George Aiken (R.-Vt.) delivered a Memorial Day address in the old style. "We are the most fortunate people on earth today," Aiken said, and asked of those who denounce America "Where would you rather live?"

• In Buffalo, Minn. Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D.-Minn.) observed both Memorial Day and his 63rd birthday by calling for "honesty and candor in politics" and said politicians must "restore faith

· In Chicago over the weekend to attend a reunion of the Red River Rats, former fighter pilots of the air war over North Vietnam, Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said U.S. forces are now more combat-ready than they were during the Vietnam war. He also said the move to an all-volunteer military has gone "surprisingly well."

· And in Orange, Calif., comedian

Bobe Hope, 70, watched his youngest son, Kelly, 28, graduate from Chapman College with a degree in archeology and called himself "now the dumbest member of my family."

· With an emphasis on the "Ms," delegates to the seventh national conference of the National Organization of Women met in Houston, Tex. and elected Ms. Karen Decrow of Syracuse, N.Y. as their new president in the feminist group's first contested election. Ms. Decrow's victory was assured by 486 votes on the third ballot taken just before midnight Sunday. Mary Jean Collins-Robson of Chicago was second with 448 votes. The organization elected Judith Lightfoot of Decatur, Ga. as "chair one," the second highest office in NOW.

by BOB LAHEY

North Shore Democrats gathered at Arlington Park Towers Hotel Sunday for a day of self-examination and a search for new approaches to problems which one of the guest speakers declared that the Democratic Party has been unable to solve in the past four decades.

The occasion was the 10th Congressional District Grass Roots Democratic Conference, organized by State Central Committeeman Lynn Williams of Winnetka.

Between luncheon and dinner, some 20 guests heard testimony from two dozen fellow party members on what they believe the Democratic platform should be for the 1974 and 1976 elections.

FEATURED SPEAKERS at the luncheon and dinner were two rising stars in the national party. Sen. Dick Clark of Iowa, who engineered a surprise victory over Republican incumbent Jack Miller in 1972, gave the keynote address at the luncheon. Clark entered the senatorial race in the style of George Burditt, the last-hope Republican candidate against Democratic Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III in this year's Illinois

After his boss, U.S. Rep. John Culver, declined to make the "hopeless" race against Miller, Clark himself took up the challenge and, aided by a 1,300-mile Dan Walker-type trek across the state, unseated Miller with a nifty 55 per cent

The dinner speaker was Ohio Gov. John Gilligan, whom Williams describes as perhaps the most likely prospect for the 1976 Democratic presidential election.

Both Clark and Gilligan warned the 10th District Democrats that their party is in need of renovation if it is to achieve the gains predicted by many in the wake of the Nixon administration scandals.

Clark cited the "proud heritage" of ideas and programs which modern Democrats enjoy dwelling upon. "We have reason to be proud of the past 40 years," he said," but that is no longer enough reason to be a Democrat."

FOR THE PARTY to succeed, said Clark, it must face the fact that many Democratic solutions to the nation's problems

"That means admitting that we have very often thrown our money away. It means admitting that very often our programs have not worked."

Clark cited the goals of Franklin Roosevelt in providing decent housing for all the nation; the goals of John and Robert Kennedy for eliminating starvation; the goals of Lyndon Johnson in civil rights. None of these goals, he said, have been realized.

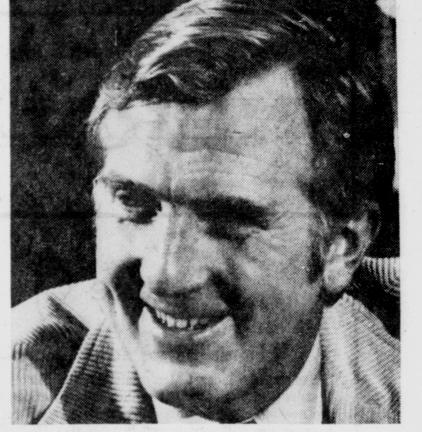

Clark also said that the Democratic party has failed to convince small businessmen and the elderly that it is the party which has been most interested in their problems.

He cited as the major difficulty of the government, a total lack of planning to face problems which can be foreseen, saying there must be "an alternative to stumbling from crisis to crisis."

"Before we can get this country moving again," he declared, "we just decide where we want to go."

GILLIGAN TOLD the dinner guests — most of them residents of the affluent and largely liberal North Shore - that the term "limousine liberals" is an accurate one.

He cautioned against Democrats basking in the benefits of the Republican Watergate scandal. "I would suggest," said Gilligan," that those of us in the majority, especially those who style ourselves liberals, bear part of the responsibility for allowing a ruthless and unscrupulous minority" to take over the reins of government.

Gilligan said Democrats have "a solemn obligation" to ask themselves how "we allowed the reelection of Richard Nixon" and to see "that such a crisis never be developed again."

Gilligan was introduced by Gov. Daniel Walker. Other guests at the conference included State Treasurer Alan Dixon and Abner Mikva, former congressman seeking reelection against U.S. Rep. Samuel H. Young, R-10th, who defeated Mikva in 1972.

RTA board OKs, then rejects, veto plan

The fledging Regional Transportation Authority board last week accepted the power to approve or veto state emergency transportation grants in the Chicago area, but was convinced to reject the decision later in the same meeting.

Tom Buck, Chicago Transit Authority spokesman, and Illinois Senate Minority Leader Cecil Partee, D-Chicago, appeared before the board at its second meeting to suggest that the members rescind the power they had unanimously accepted only minutes earlier.

State law gives the RTA board the right to approve or disapprove emergency operating grants from a $35 million fund the state established to help the CTA, commuter railroads and suburban bus companies until the RTA goes into operation. More than half of that money already has been spent. The entire amount is to be repaid to the state by the RTA within six years.

THE RTA BOARD unanimously accepted the veto powers, but board members later said a pending lawsuit challenging the constitutionality of the RTA could jeopardize the emergency funds because of an informal, but binding, court agreement that the RTA would not accept or spend any funds until the case is resolved.

Buck said that if the agreement froze the $7.9 million in state money that Gov. Dan Walker just released, plus a pending $3.2 million request, the CTA would close up on June 1.

Partee said the board's action could have a detrimental effect on efforts in the General Assembly to preserve the RTA itself. "It will have a jeopardizing effect in more ways than one," he said.

Although a motion by board member Pastora Cafferty to rescind the board's action had been tabled by a vote of 6-2, the board reconsidered her motion after Buck and Partee spoke. It was approved with seven "yes" votes and one "pass."

BUCK BACKED HIS contention that the RTA would cease service by stating that the CTA's cash flow is so critical now that deposits in the employes' pension fund have been suspended to protect the payroll. A $900,000 certificate payment to a Chicago bank also is in danger of default on June 1, he said.

In other action, the board accepted two letters suggesting candidates for the job of RTA board chairman. State Rep. Donald Totten, R-Hoffman Estates a leading RTA foe, has recommended State Rep. Thomas Miller, R-South Holland, Miller is a manager in the administrative offices of the Santa Fe Railroad, the same railroad from which RTA board member Ernest Marsh has retired.

Harry Gebo, a resident of Carpentersville, recommended Syl A. Caria, an executive of a private New Jersey bus firm who formerly headed bus operations in Minneapolis, Minn., and served as president of the American Transportation Assn. Caria is also a member of the President's Transportation Study Group.

The board also selected Waukegan banker Richard Newland as temporary treasurer of the board, and agreed to meet in closed session June 4 to begin discussions on the search for a permanent chairman.

THE HEART OF THE CONSUMER PROBLEM CONSUMERISM IS AT WORK IN STRANGE WAYS. I WANT TO SHARE MY THOUGHTS WITH YOU, HEART-TO-HEART, ON THIS SUBJECT THE NEXT FEW WEEKS. I HOPE YOU'LL PARTICIPATE WITH ME

CONSUMERISM AS A MOVEMENT IS AS OLD AS MANKIND. AT ITS HEART IS THE EFFORT TO BALANCE THE NEEDS OF PRODUCERS/PURVEYORS TO THE NEEDS OF CONSUMERS SO THAT ONE DOES NOT BENEFIT TO THE DIS-ADVANTAGE OF THE OTHER.

IN THE REALITY OF MODERN LIVING, INSTANT COMMUNICATION HAS BEEN A CATALYST ENCOURAGING PEOPLE AROUND THE WORLD TO GET MORE OF WHAT EACH PERSON INDIVIDUALLY AND IN GROUPS THINKS IS HIS FAIR SHARE OF THE FRUITS OF EFFORT - WORK. CONSUMERISM IS NOW IN A THIRD PHASE, A PHASE WHICH MANY THINK

IMPOSES A FATAL DANGER FOR US ALL. Remember the world of man forecasted in:

George Orwell's - 1984? Aldous Huxley's - Brave New World? H. G. Wells' - The Shape of Things to Come?

Each of these writers (and thousands more) predicted a world run by a few "ELITE" thinkers who would DECIDE for the billions of human "robots" out there what was RIGHT and WRONG, what they OUGHT to do, in fact, would do! While I AM A STRONG CONSUMER ADVOCATE (Who can be against consumerism? We are all consumers.) I am fearful of trends now being shaped that could lead to the LOSS OF INDIVIDUALITY for all of us. My own personal feelings are capitalism. The only alternative is a STATE RUN ECONOMY (socialism, welfare state or communism). Have you read in the newspapers recently that Sweden, an example of a 20th century welfare state, is run by 12 "elite" ruling class families and that 50% of every person's gross income goes to the government in the form of taxes? I JUST CAN'T BELIEVE THAT SUCH A SYSTEM CAN LONG REMAIN FREE OF PEOPLE WITHIN THE 12 FAMILIES WHO COULD RESIST DEVELOPING A "GOD" COM-PLEX AND BEGIN TO RULE BY AGE-OLD DESPOTIC TECHNIQUES. Communistic governments decree what is "good" for people-every breath they draw, not only in matters of economics but politics, education, family relationships, and work as well.

Socialism is a weird hodgepodge of welfare state, communism and capitalism. The lessons of history illustrate that socialism has not been a satisfactory answerto the needs of an orderly and equitable society.

While many, MYSELF INCLUDED, deplore the excesses of capitalism, nevertheless it has been the power behind the explosive MATERIAL growth of many nations. Now, it seems, an intense HUMAN ethic is being added to capitalism. Witness the incredible pressure being exerted upon America's political and business leaders to conduct themselves according to a more rigid moral standard. I have said often in this column that FREE-ENTERPRISE IS IN DEEP TROUBLE at the heart is a switch in consumerism which goes something like this: PEOPLE ARE NOT CAPABLE OF DECIDING WHAT IS GOOD FOR THEM AND GOVERNMENT IS GOING TO HAVE TO DO IT. That terrifies me and I want to talk with you about it, this week as a starter and the next six weeks as well. I think we had better make haste slowly in this new consumer trend so that we can think out more clearly its implications.

Mount Prospect to tax cigarets?

by MARCIA KRAMER

Cigaret smokers in Mount Prospect may have to shell out an extra nickel a pack if a proposal by a village trustee is adopted by the village board.

Trustee E. F. Richardson has suggested that the village impose a 5-centper-pack excise tax on cigarets sold in Mount Prospect to raise funds for capital improvements.

The proposal will be reviewed by the village board's finance committee at its July 15 meeting prior to any action by the village board.

Richardson, a former pack-a-day smoker who gave up the habit three years ago, said he was uncertain how much money could be raised by the village through the new tax. He indicated, however, that a study in Aurora (pop. 80,000) showed about 800,000 packs of cigarets sold per year, or an average of 10 packs per person. A similar average in Mount Prospect would result in the sale of 465,250 packs a year, or $23,262.50 in extra revenue at 5 cents a pack.

Richardson said he suggested the new tax to raise funds for capital improvement, particularly expansion of village administrative offices.

WHY CIGARETS? "It's a ready source - a good source - of revenue," he said. The village could impose the tax under its home rule authority.

The concept of a cigaret tax was endorsed by three village board members, including Mayor Robert D. Teichert, when contacted by The Herald. One trustee raised questions about the enforcement of such a tax, one declined comment, and one other was unavailable for comment.

Teichert said: "If the purpose is to have a definitive capital improvement program of some sort, it would gain my support. I'm not saying I'd support that kind of tax merely to raise revenue. But if it's for a good means - for some priority item we couldn't otherwise afford - that makes it a much more understandable tax."

He said he would prefer a tax on cigarets, which he characterized as "a nonessential luxury," to an increase in the property tax. "We just can't burden the real estate tax," the mayor said. "It gets" beyond a certain point, you just can't do

TRUSTEE KENNETH V. Scholten. chairman of the village board's finance committee, also endorsed the suggestion. He mentioned a possible corollary benefit of a cigaret tax: Some residents may use a tax as an initiative to quit smok-

Trustee Marie L. Caylor also backed the concept of a cigaret tax, though with reservations. "I don't disagree with it," she said. "It's another means of raising funds." She said, however, she does not consider it a good source of revenue, because "it could be too easily avoided."

Because the village adjoins other suburbs that don't have a cigaret tax, she said, many residents probably would cross the boundary into Arlington Heights, Des Plaines or Wheeling to stock up on cigarets. "It probably wouldn't work," she predicted.

Trustee George B. Anderson raised similar questions. "Enforcement might be a problem," he said. If droves of Mount Prospect residents go outside the village for cigarets, they may do other shopping in neighboring municipalities as well, cutting into the local tax base. The village receives a penny per dollar in sales tax on goods sold in the village.

RICHARDSON acknowledged the tax may prompt some residents to buy cigarets elsewhere, but indicated most people are creatures of habit who are not likely to alter their buying patterns to save a a year, the city has at the same time lost untold millions to neighboring cities in Illinois and Indiana, where untaxed cigarets have been bought by Chicagoans. "We know it's being done quite a bit," said Irving Signer of the Chicago Department of Revenue.

Trustee Richard N. Hendricks declined comment on the proposed tax in Mount Prospect, and Trustee O. T. Gustus was unavailable for comment.

Schools adopt new plan to avoid split classes

There will be no split classes in River Trails School Dist. 26 next year.

The school board last week approved a staffing plan which calls instead for the hiring of additional teachers to allow for more single-grade classes with fewer students per class.

The decision means the two schools which were tentatively scheduled to have split classes at some grade levels, Feehanville and Park View schools in Mount Prospect, will now have more singlegrade classes than originally recommended by the administration.

At Park View, where one split fifthsixth grade combination class was proposed, there will be three classes each of fifth and sixth grade.

As a result of the decision not to split any classes, two additional teaching positions wll be opened at Feehanville and one at Park View.

The staffing report also recommended the addition of one teaching position at Bond School and four added teaching spots at River Trails Junior High. Both

Polls reveal 10th District winner—Young AND Mikva

Both U.S. Rep. Samuel Young and his challenger, former congressman Abner Mikva, will win the 10th District seat in the November election — depending on whose poll is to be believed.

Young Monday released results of a poll taken in February by Market Facts, Inc. of Chicago. It shows him to be ahead by 6 per cent of the vote.

Mikva several weeks ago released a poll that showed he was ahead by 10 per cent. The Mikva poll was taken in March by Peter Hart Research of Washington, Young called a press conference Monday to announce the statistics, but said he decided to do so only because of a "number of articles" showing Mikva was in the lead in the district.

THE CONGRESSMAN described his poll as a "probability sample of residential telephone listings in the 10th Congressional District, balanced by township and between adult male and female vot-

"I would ordinarily not have released the results of this poll, since polling is indicative of results only at the time the poll was taken," Young said.

Young's poll showed that he had 37 per cent of the 400 voters sampled to Mikva's 31 per cent, and an undecided vote of 32 per cent.

"There is a sufficiently large number of undecided votes that such a poll is only informative but not conclusive,"

YOUNG'S RESULTS were treated with indifference by officials in Mikva's campaign. "It doesn't make any difference to us," Jack Marco, campaign director, said Monday.

Marco said Mikva wouldn't have released his poll results if Young hadn't challenged him to do so. "As Mikva pointed out, the polls were taken strictly for internal use in the campaign. We're using the information from our polls to decide what will be done in our campaign. I don't really care what Young's poll said; it won't make a difference in what we do," Marco said.

The Mikva poll showed Young with 35 per cent of the vote, Mikva with 45 per cent and 20 per cent undecided.

The 4 per cent salary step raise for teachers receiving more than the minimum and less than the maximum salary level gives most teachers an even higher increase, based on their education and experience. THE CONTRACT AGREEMENT was reached last week after more than two months of bargaining. The Elk Grove Township School board is expected to approve the agreement at its June 3 meet-According to a spokesman for the Dist.

Second thoughts on using popcorn as filler

I've been guilty of a boneheaded piece of advice. Several letters have arrived, questioning my suggestion that overseas packages of cookies be well wrapped, and that the empty spaces in the boxes be filled with fluffy popcorn. I referred to the popcorn as a "bonus."

corn or cereal products used as filler can absorb fumes from airplane engines and be unsafe for eating. While I haven't checked this with aviation engineers, the caution seems quite sound to me. Crushed or shredded newspapers should be used as filler. If you happen to have some polyethylene foam around, you can cut this up, too, for use as filler.

Pregnant student can remain in class

Can a student be suspended from high school because she is pregnant?

No. A pregnant student may remain in class as long as she is physically able to do so. In addition, Illinois law provides for home instruction and correspondence courses for pregnant students to continue their education.

The title of the house in which my husband and I live is only in his name. Will I become the owner if he should die?

Possibly. If you are the only surviving heir of your husband, yes. However, if your husband leaves no will, and if there are surviving descendants, then you would inherit only one-third of his total estate.

What is meant by a "legal separation" in a marriage?

Caution: first things first

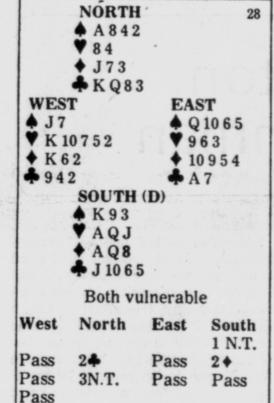

Reese and Dormer point out that the normal carefree declarer will go down one at three notrump. He will win the opening heart lead; note that clubs are the suit to be established and lead a club. East will take the ace and lead a second heart to clear the suit for West.

South will still be able to make the hand if he has taken the second heart and worked out an end play against West. But the chances are that he will take the diamond finesse and complain about hard luck.

The careful declarer will try to count to nine sure tricks. He will see that he needs two diamonds. So, at trick two he will lead a spade to dummy's ace and lose the diamond finesse to his hand. West won't be able to hurt declarer with a heart lead. South will have time to clear the clubs and make his nine tricks.

What if West leads a second spade when he gets in with the king of diamonds? South will still be sure of his contract, since nothing bad can happen to him in the spade suit.

How often do the body cells reproduce?

I read in an article in a newspaper that every cell in a person's body reproduces itself every ten to eight years. Do you have any way of checking on this? If so, will you please give me any information you have about it?

That is another one of those half-truths that is constantly repeated. The truth is some cells never reproduce at all. Some cells reproduce when they are needed to replace a damaged cell and still others reproduce constantly.

A good example of continuous reproduction is the case of the red blood cells. Did you know that your body manufactures about three-million new red blood cells every second? It also destroys red cells at that rate. An average red blood cell only lasts about 120 days. So, normally you always have a lot of fairly young red blood cells in your body, not "tired blood."

The lining of the small intestine is completely replaced every three days. The old cells, incidentally, are digested and the protein in these cells used just like a protein in your food. Our body is a great recycling machine far ahead of our primitive ideas about recycling in our own environment. Even the iron-containing hemoglobin in those destroyed red blood cells is saved and used again to form new blood cells.

THE CELLS OF the skin are constantly being shed and replaced. So are the hair fibers. These must be rebuilt with new proteins.

The liver is a good example of an organ that can grow new cells if part of it is removed. If a lot of scarring occurs (cirrhosis) it may not be able to do so, but ordinary injury or surgical excision of part of the liver stimulates it to form new liver cells.

By contrast, muscles, vessels, tendons and brain cells cannot be replaced at all or at best only poorly. You can increase the size of muscle fibers by training, but you won't increase the number of cells or replace old ones.

We are stuck with the number of brain cells we have, and as we get older the number of those in the cortex or thinking portion are fewer in number. Fortunately, we have a lot more than we usually need. But, it can become important as you get older. Brain cells damaged by excess use of alcohol on a long-term basis cannot be replaced.

THERE IS MUCH new interesting work, though, that indicates that living brain cells can learn to take over new functions. Thus, if a person loses the cells that control an arm there is the possibility that other cells can be trained to take over these functions. The possibility of training other brain cells for new tasks opens a wide possibility for helping people with problems such as strokes at some time in the future.

Many cells, such as brain cells, can undergo chemical changes, even if the cell is not replaced. That is, the proteins, amino acids and various minerals in the cell may be exchanged for different proteins and minerals during the cell's life. These changes may be related to cell repair or renewal, even if the cells are not actually replaced. So, you have all variations, rather than a seven-or-eight-year cyclical replacement.

The Forest View ace got in trouble in the third when Glenbard's catcher Mark Wyckoff beat out an infield single, stole second, and scored on a throwing error. Gaspar then followed with a booming shot over the fence into straightaway center field.

"That was a terrible pitch," said Monroe. "It was a slider that was right at the waist. It was supposed to be low and in. It was just terrible."

Champion gives it to you straight

Milton

Richman

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — There are two kinds of race drivers: the honest ones who come clean and admit the hazards of the profession make them kick around the idea of quitting now and then, and the other kind — the pure bluffers.

Johnny Rutherford, the new Indianapolis 500-mile champion, belongs in the first group. He's not a bluffer. He gives it to you straight.

The question was one frequently asked every new Indy champ who has been on the circuit a long time as Rutherford has been. Had he ever, because of all the injuries he had suffered, and all the hazards involved, ever thought of chucking the whole thing overboard, simply quitting auto racing, just like that?

Yes, said Johnny Rutherford, he had.

500 feature,

would I do?" Special Indy

"There were a couple of times," said the pleasant, 36-year-old veteran from Fort Worth. "I had two broken arms once in 1966 . . . and then there was a time we had a rash of accidents in sprint cars which I was doing a lot with then. The thought occurred to me maybe it wasn't all worth it."

Rutherford paused a moment and

"Then I thought, 'what in the world

The fact is most fellows like Johnny Rutherford would rather run race cars for nothing, if they had to, than work at some desk job for $50,000 a year. It's trite, but true - racing is in their blood, like some kind of opiate, and privately they boil when people write them off as a bunch of lunatics risking their necks needlessly.

Rutherford had something to say about that, too, when a comparison was drawn between Sunday's smooth and relatively uneventful race in which everybody walked away in one piece, and last year's disaster which claimed driver Swede Savage, a one-time teammate of Rutherford's, as well as one of the pit workers.

"I hope," said Rutherford, citing Sunday's race, "it'll ease peoples' minds that we're not a bunch of idiots looking to see how many people we can wipe

The race itself was well conducted although a good portion of the drama was lost when A. J. Foyt, trying for his fourth 500 victory, and running neck-and-neck with Rutherford, had to remove himself from the competition in the 143rd lap because of gearbox trouble.

"I'd rather he had finished," Rutherford said, obviously meaning it. "I hated to see it end that way because A. J. and I became close friends the last few years and I knew what this meant to him. I also knew if he staved in, it could've meant a wrestle at the end. He was faster in the straightaway, but I could've run with him in the corners. I'd say it was a draw between us as far as speed

One of the sidelights to the race, as always, was the crowd which exceeded 200,000 and treated the entire spectacle as it generally does - something like a Roman circus.

Out of pure curiosity, I dropped by the emergency ward of Methodist Hospital downtown around midnight the night before the race to see how things were going there.

"About average for the night before the race," an ambulance driver told me. "One overdose, one stabbing and a couple of motorcyclists hit by a car. Funny thing, not one of them was from here. All of them were from out of town."

As the ambulance driver said, it was an average night before the race.

The following day, Sunday, Johnny Rutherford averaged 158.589 mph in winning his first Indy 500 after 10 previous unsuccessful tries.

His wife, Betty, who used to be a nurse at that same Methodist Hospital and whom he met here when he competed in his first 500 back in 1963, was right there at the starting line Sunday to see him

"Be careful," she said to him, "and I love you."

"I will," he answered her. "see you in Victory Lane and I love you, too."

When it was all over, somebody asked Betty Rutherford if she worries when her husband is racing.

"Of course, I worry," she said. "But I'd worry about him if he were digging

Amidst the wreckage of that high flying dream called RTA can be found the remnants of broken promises made while the Regional Transit Authority was still an idea of great promise.

thority. The CTA, a transit system which relies on the whole state of Illinois for its funding, cannot support itself and so must reach to the pocketbooks of people who do not use the CTA for financial support.

Now that pocketbook has narrowed following action last week by Gov. Daniel Walker - in fact the pocketbook of the CTA has now narrowed to exclude the state as a whole and focus on the suburban taxpayer who will soon be supporting the CTA.

Here's what happened:

Last week Walker released $7.9 million in state funds for a loan to the CTA. The CTA needs this money to keep running, just as it always needs state funds to stay in business. But now, with the existence of RTA, Walker has said the repayment of the $7.9 million to the state falls not to the CTA but to RTA, and that means to the taxpayers of the suburbs. We are now providing the money crutch to the CTA previously borne by the wider resources of the people of the en-

In his action, Walker is moving completely within the law. The law says the RTA will assume the obligations of all of its parts, including the bankrupt CTA.

But despite the exactitude of the law, it is still a tough nut to swallow. RTA, torn and shredded and the result of some of the most infamous backroom politicking in the history of the state, now rests on our doorstep with a new $7.9 million obligation on top of everything else.

In retrospect, every suburban advocate and opponent of RTA knew bills like this one were coming. It is disappointing to see the bills come in before the public body called RTA is even functioning, but still, we knew it was com-

What is still entirely uncertain is the benefits planned for the suburbs from RTA.

And that, we bet, will not be coming so hard and fast as the bills.

'Unfair' baseball story

This letter is being sent to the editor. however it is really directed to Mr. Bob Gallas, who recently wrote a series of articles on Elk Grove Boys Baseball. I patiently waited until he was finished so that I could answer all of his, in my opinion, very unfair and uninformed articles.

To begin with, in Elk Grove Boys Baseball, there are no tryouts. If a boy wants to play baseball, all he does is sign up and he plays. I've been associated with Elk Grove Boys Baseball for the last seven years and I have never seen 15 managers "armed with clip boards" at any game, practice or anything else, rating the boys. If you're going to write about Elk Grove, come out and know what you are talking about.

I also don't know where you get your figures that more than 60 per cent of all the boys lay claim to the Major League. We have 112 boys in the Ponys, 192 in the Majors, 192 in the A League, 208 in the B League and 130 in the Instructional League, so I just don't see where 192 equals 60 per cent of our total 834 boys. Each league, or better still each boy, receives the same amount of attention regardless of where he plays - not as you state more attention to the majors. You say our A and B leagues usually play half a game - our rules say they must.

In your second article, you say we teach the curve ball. Well, nothing could be farther from the truth than that. Our managers and coaches do not teach the curve ball and do all they can to stop the boys from throwing it!

In your fourth article, instead of knocking the coaches and managers for not having professional experience, why not pat them on the back for a change? These men put in many hours of hard work, baby sitting and many other things just to give these boys a baseball program. You say the parents are wrong for the program, well, forget the parents for a while and answer me this. How many of the boys did you talk to in writing your articles for their side of it? You also criticize our dance and bowling party - well, I'd like to know what's wrong with people getting together for a night out as that's what these affairs are for, not to raise money as you stated. In your last article, you say play softball. Well, softball is fine, but it should be played by boys 13 and up. Have you ever seen an 8 or 9-year-old try to handle a 16-inch softball? Their hands just aren't large enough and what happens to a center fielder's arm on a long throw? If played right, softball is a fine game but again, I say the younger boys just can't handle that large of a ball.

In closing, I would like to say again, you were very unfair to a lot of dedicated, hard working people who for whatever reason put a lot of hours and hard work into Boys Baseball to give the boys of Elk Grove one of the finest baseball programs anywhere!

Take away Boys Baseball and I'm sure you would have an awful lot of broken down by the commissions. One such claimed victory was the provision for "proportional representation" in delegate selection. This rule simply provides that any presidential aspirant who has at least 15 per cent support at a party caucus or convention must be given delegates reflecting that percentage

The effect of the rule is to wipe out the last vestiges of the winner-take-all procedure commonly used in delegate selection at lower levels of the party machinery.

Wallace's people were ecstatic about proportional representation, claiming they now had secured a way for Wallace to win the Democratic presidential nomination. As a kind of dry run, Wallace supporters began organizing to send delegates to the Democratic midterm "mini-convention" scheduled for December, 1974, in Kansas City.

The delegate selection process for the Kansas City meeting still is under way, but some of the first results from lower level caucuses indicate that it might require more than a change in the rules and advance organization to put the Wallace group into the driver's seat.

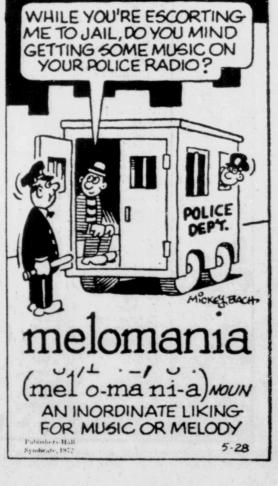

In at least one area, eastern Texas, Wallace actually did worse in precinct and county caucuses than in 1972. It was noted that there was considerable factional squabbling among the Wallaceites in the area, but that did not make the outcome any more palatable to the Alabama governor's campaign stragetists.

It was shortly after that - and after Wallace produced a landslide victory in his own gubernatorial primary - that the rumblings about a possible third par-

It is entirely circumstantial, but the suspicion does arise that Wallace may be getting worried that he is in danger of diluting his political clout by stringing along with Strauss and trying to enter the mainstream Democratic Party.

It is true, for example, that Wallace got open black support in his primary campaign, but also a fact that memories linger and some Democratic leaders, white and black, will not forget or forgive the man who stood in the schoolhouse door at Tuscaloosa. (UPI)

Lauds education column

Dear Wandalyn Rice:

Your fine column about career education appearing in the May 16 issue has come to my attention.

I just wanted to thank you for presenting the concept so thoroughly and intelligently. It is obvious that you understand your subject and its many ramifications.

You are absolutely right that many good things in education are either misunderstood and/or carried to extremes. Your word of caution in these areas is appropriate and I intend to do whatever I can to see that educators heed them!

It's hard

NEW YORK - When the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service opened a National Office for Nazi War Criminals last July, Nathan Sobel and hundreds of other Jewish survivors of World War II were grat-

For years the survivors had insisted, naming names, that Nazi officers had immigrated to America and were anonymously enjoying the blessings of a system they had tried Sobel, as example, was particularly interested in a pair of brothers from Philadelphia. As one who had lived through mass murders in a Jewish ghetto in the Ukranian village of Luboml, Sobel said he believed the brothers were among the Nazi policemen of the town.

The brothers had been sentenced in absentia (life imprisonment) by the Russians after the war, but were granted uninhibited residence in the United States. Surely, Sobel thought, the new war criminals office would rectify this alleged inconsistency.

NOW, 10 MONTHLS later, Sobel and many like him have lost their gratitude to the U.S. immigration department and their enthusiasm for the war criminals office. The brothers are still in America, so are the rest of the originally accused offenders, and critics charge authorities with being less than serious about the entire matter.

For its part the war criminals office insists it is doing everything legally possible. Director Sam Zutti says "no rock has been left in place" in the search for war criminals. He says immigration officers in 43 domestic branches and several more overseas have cooperated in searching for "every thread" of evidence.

'We've been in Israel, we've been behind the Iron Curtain, we've been everywhere we thought we might talk to eyewitnesses. But it's been very difficult."

DIFFICULT INDEED, and statistically almost futile. Immigration records indicate that investigations have been made into the backgrounds and where abouts of at least 71 accused individuals, yet to date not one of them has been deported. (Last year authorities did deport one Nazi concentration camp guard. Hermine Braunsteiner Ryan, but the case was not handled by the new war criminals office.)

Eighteen of the original 71 accused have never been verified (located), 17 of them have died, and two have left the country for their own reasons. "This leaves 32 on the active list," says Zutti, "plus we may add a few. We are working on every lead

Many believe Zuitti is not working hard enough, among them former Immigration employes who have left the service in disgust. One ex-officer, who pleads privacy, says "the Service is not heartless in the matter, it wants to catch the Nazis, too - but it's so damned incompetent and feeble." Another former employe, an investigator named Tony Devito, is trying to peddle an expose manuscript which observers say is "a flat denunciation of Immigration bumbling."

One instance of bumbling, say the angry men, involved a wartime high official of the government of Croatia (part of Yugoslavia), briefly set up as a fascist state by Mussolini. Its leaders have been accused of sundry attrocities.

ONE LEADER, Auturo Artukovic, now living in California, was ordered deported at Yugoslav request in 1953, but the order was never carried out. Immigration officials say it was feared Artukovic would be "persecuted rather than prosecuted" by Yugoslavia and so he remains in this

Immigration officials say they realize such decisions as that made in the Artukovic case are open to criticism and condemnation. But they believe they can not do otherwise than to follow the law and the democratic conscience. "We're between the rockand the hard place in these things," says a Washington Immigration veteran. "A lot of us too would like to weed out the Nazis - hell, I fought them myself in the war. But the laws on deportation are strict."

Actually, the deportation laws are in many cases almost impossible to surmount. Sol Marks, district director for Immigration in New York, says "the language of the court is that there must be 'clear, convincing and unequivocable' evidence to warrant a denaturalization or deportation. No hearsay evidence is allowed, no circumstantial evidence." Adds Zutti: "We need hard, undeniable

UNFORTUNATELY, the nature of most war criminal cases is that there are no hard facts. The lapse of time, for one thing, has caused an attrition of witness and a fogging of precise memory.

Sighs a New jork official of the nai B'rith Anti-Defamation League: "How the hell can you get evewitnesses against a war criminal who exterminated an entire popu-

And even when witnesses do exist, faces change, plastic surgery has sometimes helped; unless there are many witnesses, testifying to the exact same things, the accused can be acquitted because he is fatter, now bearded or bald.

Besides this, there are the political implications of deportation. The Russians, for example, are forever hungry to throw someone in jail. And what with the accusations of antisemitism being increasingly hung on them, they are today presumably more interested than ever to thump someone for a real or imagined Jew-

FOR THIS reason, the United States does not recognize the verdicts of trials in absentia and will even protect and shelter the guilty if. according to the immigration code, the deported "would be subject to persecution on account of race, religion or political opinion."

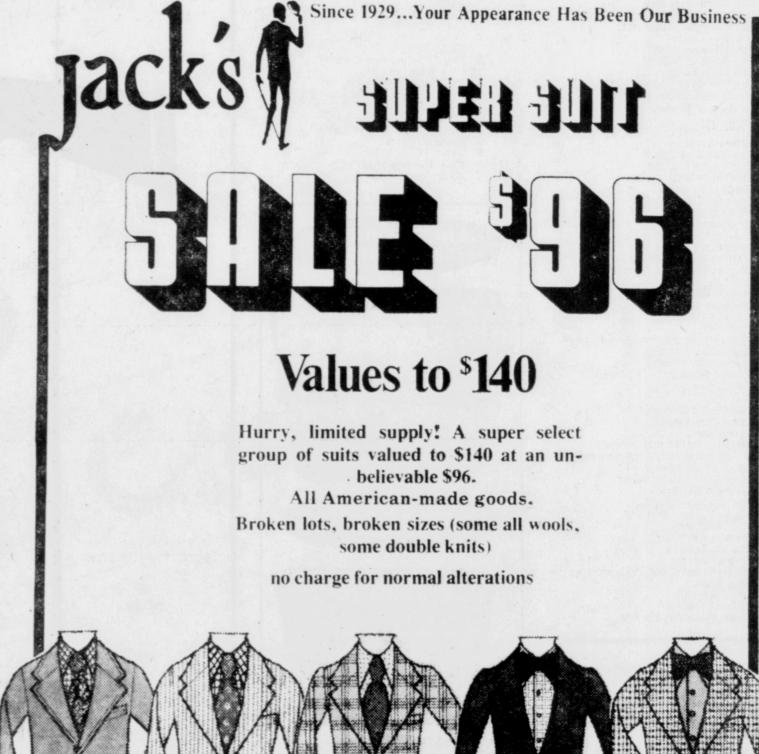

But despite all these legalities and rationalizations, critics maintain the new office of war criminals has so low a profile it is all but publicly unkown and all but functionally in-

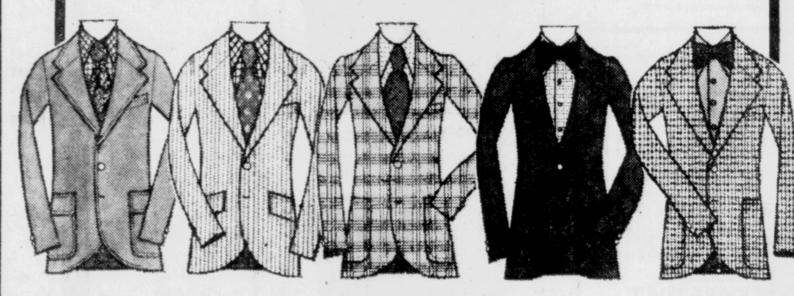

"I was in Israel recently," says one Jewish official, "and I asked many survivors of the Nazis if they had ever been questioned about this accused man or that accused man. All of them shook their heads. This means the immigration people are being something less than aggres-

Sintra—home of fairytales, castles

by CLARE WRIGHT

SINTRA, Portugal — There was a misty gray haze all around the golden turrets of romantic old Pena Palace the day we visited this weird, fantastic castle in

"I feel like I've just awakened after being caught between the pages of a Grimm's fairytale book," said one of the others in our group of Midwest writers on a fast-paced tour of castles outside

Having just finished reading a volume of those same fairytales to my 8-yearold, I felt the same eerie sensation.

SINTRA! What a place for castle buffs

You can climb their lofty stairways and flee a thousand ghosts in musty old towers - dine with royalty on gourmet food in a converted 18th century castle kitchen - or sleep in a romantic palace where it is said Lord Byron once worked in the front garden.

It was Byron who called Sintra a "glorious Eden." Located 18 miles from Lisbon, the town is one of the oldest in Portugal.

Lush green vegetation and forests of ferns combine with bougainvillea, camellias and bright geraniums to make it even more like a setting out of a fairy-

To arrive at Pena Palace, which is perched on a plateau over a thousand feet above sea level, we drove up a twisty road through a forest of green pines and eucalyptus.

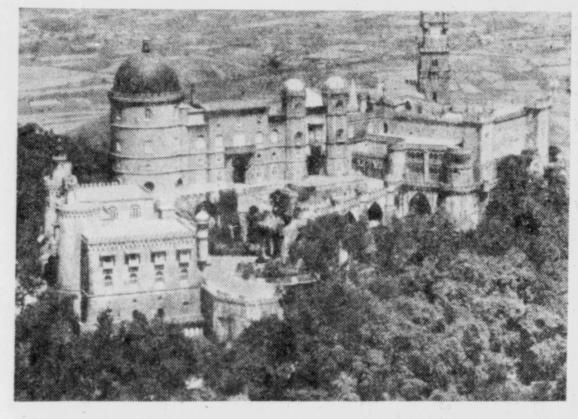

There at the top was a towering conglomeration of domed roofs, turrets, look-outs and parapets that looks somehow like a cross between a Walt Disney creation and the wild fantasy of a mad Bavarian king.

THE PALACE WAS built in the 1840s by Ferdinand, the young German consort of Portugal's Queen Maria II.

Another Sintra castle is the Royal Palace, summer home of Portuguese kings until 1910. Before that it was the vacation palace of Moorish sultans whose dancing harem girls cavorted in front of bubbling fountains. We could almost sense the ghosts about.

The original palace was torn down, of course, and yet we could spot some Moorish architecture in the Royal Palace, which is still used for state recepment) is $45 a day for two with breakfast

There's something mysteriously enchanting about Sintra. One almost wonders if there might not be a "magic spell" ready to entrap some visitor, as in an ancient legend. So they would have to stay forever which might not be bad at paintings and tapestries.

WE COULD IMAGINE the grand banguets that must have been held in times past when we walked through the gigantic Palace kitchen with two great chimneys under which there are four handturned spits large enough to roast four oxen at one time.

Speaking of kitchens, the elegant one in the 14th century Queluz Palace on the highway to Sintra has been converted into a restaurant. We had lunch there one day in its attractive setting of gleaming copper, oil paintings and torchiers. The Queluz chimney is huge also - but small compared to the gargantuan one we saw in the Royal Palace kitchen. A Dutchman built the Hotel Palacio de Seteais at Sintra late in the 18th century. A Portuguese marquis purchased and restored it to its present glory.

To arrive at this 18th-century palace we drove up a long, circular drive, past towering shade trees, a wise expanse of lawn and handsome hedges - feeling almost like royalty as we walked through the arched entryway.

INSIDE THERE IS a long galleried seen on the walls of many of the palace hall and a dramatic staircase, with white rooms. There are also many handsome and gilt balustrades and columns, which

Mobil's Pegasus a Dallas landmark

DALLAS (UPI) - The city council has declared Pegasus, the monstrous flying red horse which has sat atop the Mobil Oil Building downtown for more than 25 years, a historical landmark to spare it from the city's new sign ordinance. Historical landmarks are exempt under the ordinance which requires roof signs not to extend more than three feet above the top of the building.

The horse used to be the highest point in Dallas but since has been dwarfed by other buildings.

A Jamaican 'jungle' opens

It would be accurate to describe Jamaica as "a country of Edens," there are so many public and private gardens scattered through the island.

THE HERALD

Now, with the new 35-acre Tropic Gardens of Montego Bay, its full potential for outdoor enjoyment is being offered to visitors. There is something for everyone: a natural bamboo-shaded river, a lake, botanical gardens, a zoo, exotic birds, a plant nursery and a nine-acre public park with facilities for picnics and children's "jungle" play area. There are 1,700 varieties of plants and shrubs, waterfowl, parrots, macaws, and numbers of tame indigenous animals. The nursery will propagate up to 50,000 plants each year, which island people can buy at cost. Plant experimentation, lectures and seminars for gardeners and nurserymen are also planned.

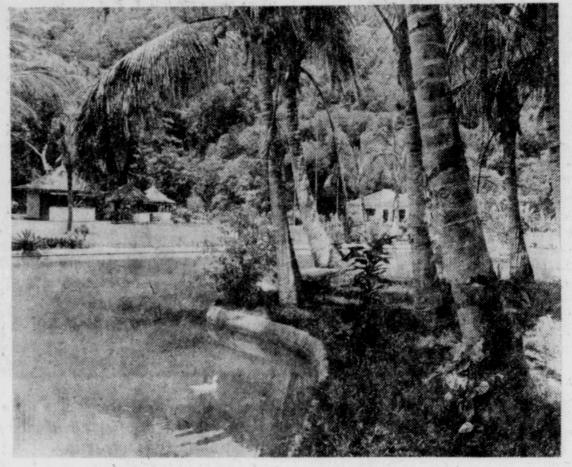

IN ITS year-long development of the park, the Jamaica Tourist Board did not overlook the amenities. Near the entrance are a series of outdoor shops with traditional roof lines that blend into the atmosphere. There is a restaurant and bar, and unusual boutiques such as a shop for shell collectors and one that delivers made-to-order dresses to one's hotel within 36 hours. Strolling about the grounds is made easy by flagstone paths and well-manicured lawns.

Within the larger acreage is the nineacre public "Irwin Park," which is laid out for family barbecues and children's Entrance fee is 22 cents for adults ad 11 cents for children. Picnic tables, a wading pool, a playground and snack it as a center for special night attracstand are offered here, as well as sani- tions such as folk music, plays, flower tary facilities.

ALTHOUGH the Jamaica Tourist Board expects 30,000 visitors a year eventually, there will never be a sense of overcrowding or over-use due to its design and vast acreage.

Plans are now being made to develop town near Sign Great House.

Outdoor guide reforms tenderfoot

If anybody in this world can switch this tenderfoot into an avid fan of the great outdoors, maybe Dick Dunlop can.

I spent several enjoyable hours this past weekend browsing through Dick's brand new Rand McNally "Outdoor Recreation Guide," and suddenly I'm feeling the call of the trail.

Dunlop is a freelance author and travel writer who lives in Arlington Heights but spends a good many days out of every year gallivanting around the United States (and the world) gathering material for his books and articles for national magazines.

IN HIS new "Outdoor Recreation Guide," Dick writes convincingly and colorfully about the joys of camping, backpacking, canoeing, spelunking and rockhounding. It's enough to make even a dyed-in-the-wool nut on creature comforts like me start thinking maybe a room with bath and room service aren't really all that necessary.

Besides being a guide to hiking, trail riding, canoeing, rafting, backpacking and camping, the new Rand McNally publication is also a complete directory of outdoor recreation areas in the United States and Canada.

And, in this era of limited energy resources, it's an ideal blueprint for traveling on your own steam.

Each section of recreational activities includes detailed information on how to plan the trip, what to take along, special suggestions and safety tips. I believe even a complete neophyte at bike hiking, houseboating or river rafting could study this guide and start off on a great trip.

SECTIONS OF recreational activities include camping, backpacking and trail riding, hiking, bike hiking and camping, rockhounding and spelunking, canoeing and rafting, boating and boat camping, sport diving, and conservation and wild-

Regions are divided thusly: the Northeast, Mid-Atlantic states, South, Midwest, Southwest, Rockies and the Pacific Coast. Each section includes a detailed map and a descriptive listing of the places where you can find all the various outdoor activities.

Tomorrow won't take care of itself. And, deep down, you know that. So you'd better do something about your future money needs

There's a painless way. Simply start building your nest egg a little at a time. It's easy when you buy U.S. Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

You can save as little or as much as you want. Just specify the amount. And it'll be set aside from your paycheck and used to buy Bonds.

Then, when the future arrives, you'll be better fixed to face it. Because Bonds are the best shock absorber around.

Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (44% the first year). Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen or destroyed. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.
